

SEP 2013 WHEATS

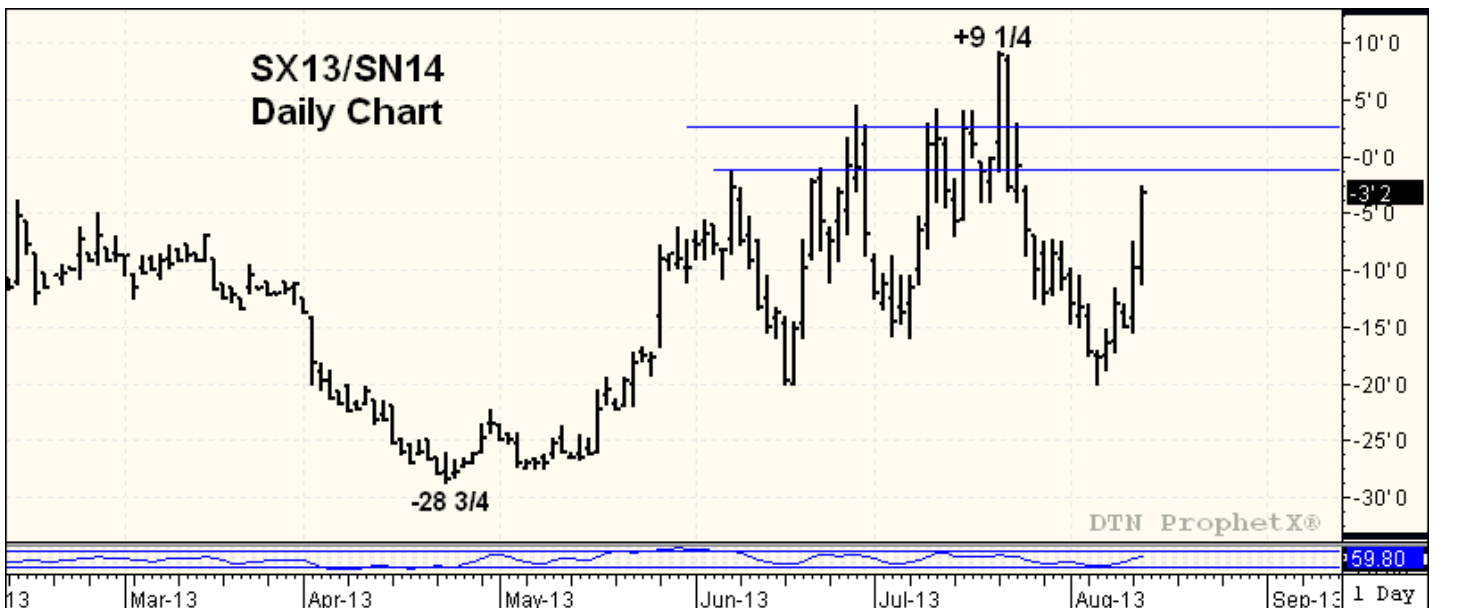

Wheat futures posted losses for the day, following corn's weakness and absence of fundamental support. Chicago posted a new contract low trade and settlement. Export sales activity remains limited due to plentiful (cheaper) world supplies. Charts remain in a sideways lower price pattern with little except corn to offer a supportive near term influence. Funds were net sellers of 3000 contracts in the Chicago SRW market. Look for mixed price action in the overnight trade as bears continue to await a reason to cover short positions.
